LET US LIVE FOR OUR CHILDREN.

The education of children really begins long before the usual age of entering school. No sooner does the child sit alone than it is given rattle and ball and following these other toys, and then blocks and books with bright pictures. These are not merely for amusement, but, whether one really means it seriously or not, they are means of instruction and will be so used by the wise parent so far as her time and opportunities will admit. But just here at the most impressionable age the child is crowded out of the mother's care and given over to ignorant nurses and servants and they use these things in a manner often the reverse of wise or beneficial.

In 1844, at Blankenburg, in Germany, one Frederick Froebel issued a book with the above title in which he details a system of graded amusements and games for young children according to their age, intelligence and development, which have in view the enlarging and developing of the mind, training of the powers of observation and the inculcating of facts which shall prepare the way for a profitable and successful study of books.

This system, called the kindergarten, thus introduced a half century ago in Germany, has been widely used since that time. A few years ago it was first used in this country, and soon training schools for the instruction of kindergarten teachers were established and little kindergartens sprang up all over the land to the great advantage of numberless children, not to speak of their tired mothers.

Here the child is taught application, obedience, courtesy and observation by means of games, songs and pretty amusements, and is in a purely scientific manner prepared for school life at the ordinary age.

It is perhaps not widely known to Alexandrians that we have in our midst a very excellent teacher of this system in Mrs. Morrill, who has in charge the Kindergarten department of the Arlington Literary Institute on Prince st., and whom, having watched with great interest the effect of her training of children, I can heartily recommend. The benefits of that training have been very marked in the case of my own child.

PARENT.

A SWORD SWALLOWER OUT OF WORK.—August Reicke, a professional sword swallower, 50 years old, has not had work in his line for some time. He had a family to support at 16 Willet street, and he became despondent. Monday night he took an old cavalry sabre blade twenty-three inches long and started to plunge it down his throat. His hand was not steady and the sword cut his throat. The pain made him cry out, and then he took the sword in his hands, and, whirling it around his head, lunged about the room. The screams of his wife and children startled one of the tenants in the house, who peeped in at the door. Seeing Reicke with the sword in his hands and the wife and children in fear, he slammed the door and ran yelling to the street for a policeman.

Officer Fallon opened the door of Reicke's room and saw him swing the sword.

"What are you trying to do?" asked Fallon.

"I've killed seven people and have buried their bodies, and I'm ready for more," Reicke replied.

He was sent to Bellevue. —New York Herald.

Use it in Time.

Catarth starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat, and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarth, causing an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarth will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across the forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

For Over Fifty Years.

AN OLD AND WELL-TRIED REMEDY.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.
